Sheep Farm, in this county, under and kindred subjects, they could not the management of S. Cochran. He has now about eleven hundred sheep and cashmere goats. We have heard This will soon induce farmers and much of the management of sheep, but was never before, an eye witness. The entire flock is in excellent health, good order, and most perfectly disciplined. One man and two dogs handled the flock when, where and at pleasure. To give an example, we mention a fact almost incredible to our own eyes. On the farm is a fine garden, with an abundance of vegetables growing-beets, cabbages, etc.up closely to a road running through it. The road is sixteen feet wide. To our utter astonishment the two dogs put the entire flock through that garden in the road described, and the system of farming different from not one plant was nipped!

We have read much heretofore, of stock being trained, so as to be driven through growing crops without injury, but this is the first practical demstration we ever witnessed.
